Re: Cellular Masts

I am a resident and an estate agent living in Riverclub within close proximity to the Riverclub shopping Centre and the cellular masts.

The masts are extremely unsightly and if not hazardous to one's health, they certainly can be of no benefit. Since Joan has brought this issue to my attention, I have done some research and whilst there are some who insist there are no long term effects to one's health, this has yet to be proven. The perception is that they are a definite health hazard and perception is reality, therefore there are many people who refuse to live near cellular masts in concern for themselves and their children's health.

As a professional estate agent, I know that taking prospective purchasers to properties, masts are certainly off putting and probably reduce the prospective market by approximately 30 – 40% as these buyers will not even view properties in close proximity to cell phone masts.

I would like to suggest that it is in all our interests to become involved and support Joan in this issue and campaign to have these masts taken down.
