Irish whiskey is any whiskey aged in the republic of Ireland or in Northern Ireland. Like scotch it must be distilled to an abv of less than 94.8. It must be made from yeast-fermented grain mash in such a way that the distillate has an aroma and flavour derived from the materials used. (I copied that line directly from Wikipedia). You are free to use any cereal grains, but if you mix two or more distillates it must be labelled as blended. Finally, the whiskey must be aged for at least three years in wooden casks.

SCOTCH

Johnnie Walker Red.....	€5.3
Black & White.....	€5.3
Glenmorangie.....	€8.1
Talisker 10yr.....	€9.0

To qualify as a scotch the spirit must be made from malted Barley, with many scotches using nothing more than barley, water & yeast. You are allowed to include whole grains of other cereals as well as caramel colouring. No fermentation additives or short-cuts permitted. The spirit must also be aged in oak casks for no less than three years, and must have an ABV at less than 94.8%. Finally, you cannot call your drink Scotch unless it was made 100% in Scotland.

BOURBON

Wild Turkey.....	€5.0
Makers Mark.....	€6.0
Jim Beam.....	€5.3
Bulleit Bourbon.....	€6.5
Woodford Reserve.....	€8.0

Bourbon whiskey must be made from a grain mixture which is at least 51% corn. The fermentation process for this mixture is often started by mixing in some mash from an older already fermenting batch, a process known as sour mash. Bourbon can only be labelled as Bourbon if it was made in the United States.

TENNESSEE WHISKEY

Jack Daniels.....	€5.3
-------------------	------

Tennessee Whiskey is straight bourbon made in the state of Tennessee. The people who produce this spirit don't want their whiskey labelled as Bourbon, claiming that they are the only type of whiskey which puts the spirit through a charcoal filtering process. As a result they believe their drink deserves to be distinguished with a separate name. Other than that all Bourbon rules apply.

RYE

Canadian Club.....	€5.3
Bulleit Rye.....	€6.5

Rye is the trickiest of all whiskey's to define. The reason for this comes from a historical naming convention for Rye produced in Canada. The only rule to label your whisky as Rye in Canada is for it to have some rye in it, and to possess the aroma, taste and character generally attributed to Canadian whiskey. Same as Bourbon it must be aged in charred new oak barrels distilled to an ABV less than 80%.
